News Networks in Seventeenth Century Britain and Europe

Examining new research, this excellent volume presents a series of case-studies exemplifying the new newspaper history. Using cross-cultural comparisons, Joad Raymond establishes an agenda for answering crucial questions central to the future histories of the political and literary culture of early-modern Britain:

- * What is the relationship between the circulation of news in Britain and communication networks elsewhere in Europe?
- * Was the British development of the media unique?
- * What are the specific rhetorical properties of news-communication in seventeenth-century Britain?
- * What was the relationship between commerce and politics?
- * How do local exchanges of news relate to national practices and institutions?

Previously published as a special issue of the journal Media History, this book is compulsory reading for researchers and students of European history and media studies alike.
